

Important Reminders for U.S. Boards of Directors Navigating COVID-19

While COVID-19 will affect the operations of different companies in different ways, the boards of directors of every company should think critically about their oversight role in the context of this unprecedented global pandemic. Here are some things to remember based on the intersection of the pandemic with directors' duties.

Read the Alert >>